Solemnized at St. Matthew's by Rev. Charles M. Bart.

The Hemenway-Darte, Buckingham Everett, and Howell-Smith Nuptials.

A nuptial mass, solemnized with all the omp and ceremony of the Catholic Church followed the marriage service that united Miss Mary Eleanor Barrett and Mr. Charles A. Dolan yesterday morning at St. Mat-

At 11 o'clocck the bridal train passed p the aiste, ied by the ushers, Messrs. J. Gatlagher, of Cleveland; J. A. Moore, of Pidiadelphia, and James and Richard Bar-rett, of this city and brothers of the bride. Miss Marie Warren, of Paterson, N. J., preceded the bride, who was escorted to the sanctuary by her father, Mr. James Herbert Barrett, where the groom and his best man, Mr. D. J. Dolan, of Cheveland, were waiting to receive her.

The marriage sacrament was then solemnized by Rev. Charles M. Hart, as-sistant paster of St. Matthew's, before the great marble altar, which was embowered with myriads of lights At its conclusion ary to the front pews, while the bride and groom had seats and priedicus within it during the mass, which was celebrated by Rev. Father Bart, assisted by Rev. Thomas S. Lee, paster of St. Matthew's dencon and Rev. Paul Rennolds subdencon The music was rendered by the choir of the church. Presentin the sanctuary, also was Rev. Dr. Stafford, of St. Patrick's

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr James Berbert Barrett, of the Southern Railroad, and a recent addition to Washington society, was ideally pretty in white satin, duchess lace and pearls. Her tolle veil was fastened with diamonds and orange blossoms, and her flowers were white orchids mingled with lilies of the valley and touches of feathery green. Warren's gown was of thish pink

she wore a large white hat, trimmed with blush roses and white plumes. Her flowers were pink peas, tied with rithon of pink The cetemony was followed by a wed-ding breakfast, at the home of Mr and Barrett, No. 1402 Twenty-first street, to relatives and a number of friends. among whom were several dignitaries of the church. In addition to the bridal attendants there were present Rev. Charles Bart, Rev. Thomas S. Lee, Rev. Paul Renolds, Rev. D J. Stafford, D. D., Mr. and Mrs. Dariton and Miss Dariton, Mr and Mrs. J. A. Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on the 10 o'clock train for an extended tour South. Their future home will be in Philadelphia, but Mrs. Smith will be at home to her friends at the residence of her parents for a few days after June 5

The members of the wedding party were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Howell on last Tuesday evening.

Today the marriage of that great helices. Miss Isabel Perkins, to Mr. Lars Anderson will take place in Boston. It is said that the bride's gown is a magnificent Freech creation that will dazzle the eyes of those fortunate enough to be invited to the church, and that her trousseau is the costlest that has come to this country for these many days.

When the bride attains her majority nex year she will come into possession of about $20,000,000, besides being a prospective heiress to quite as much more-and yet so that her friends assert that her money is the least of her attractions. Mr Anderson is a son of the late Gen. Nicholas and a nephew of the Anderson of Fort Sumter fame.

Dr. Conaty, who said in part; "In the name of the Catholic University of America. I thank our good friends who honor us on this academic occasion, when the university confers degrees upon de serving students. This day marks the close of the eighth year of scholastic work in the faculty of theology and of the second year in the faculties of philosophy and law. The ecclesiastical and lay students who present themselves for degrees have passed exacting examinations, which have been the rce of great satisfaction to the different faculties. The doctorate, licentiate and mastership have been won by scholarly theses, ably defended by trying public exful research and attentive study. With more than ordinary pride we present these oung men to his eminence the cardinal chanceller, that at his hands they may re seive the prizes they have so valiantly won. Days like these mark species in the onlversity life; for, like an earnest, anxionmother, the university sends forth into the busy, bustling world of intelligent activity champions of truth whom her loving care has prepared to defend the right and overthrow the wrong, to emphasize right principles and to puncture false theories, and thus help to establish the kingdom of truth in the minds and Very Rev. R. P. Grannan, dean of the Theological school, presented the graduates of theology. Rev. Paul Ayward recited the prefession of faith for the graduates. after which the degrees were conferred. Rev. Charles F. Aiken made an address in seknowledgment of the degrees. The dean of the faculty of philosophy presented the candidates in his department.

Rev. Simon J. Carr, in acknowledgment "It is a pleasure for me on this occasion to thank the university for having honored me with the degree of doctor of philosophy and to publicly express my gratefulness to the professors for the careful guidance and kindly encouragement which they have shown to me during my residence at the university. I have been fortunate indeed to have had the opportunity of pursuing my studies in this institution. It is a rare privilege to be brought in daily contact with minds ripe in knowledge, to be surrounded and to enjoy social intercourse with men whose enthusiasm for learning is contagious. To whatever work we may choose to devote our efforts, we have the benefit of direction from those horough masters of their specialties. Their devotedness to the cause of science, and their earnestness for the advancement of the students under their tuition, are de serving of the highest admiration. And now, at the end of my course, it benefits me to acknowledge the many advantages that I have enjoyed, and to publicly exaress my gratitude to the university and

"It is a source of pardonable pride." he said, "to be a member of the first class receiving the doctorate degree in the civil law from this university, maintaining as it does the highest standard of study in that system of law of any institution in this country. During the full two years over which this course of study has ex-tended we have learned to appreciate more scientifically the nature of the prin ciples that underlie all human law, and, as the law of the city of Rome, both from its historical and positive standpoint, is the body of laws of the greatest state of antiquity-a state whose legal and political institutions are the basis of a multitude of modern institutions-it has been a source of intellectual delight to have enjoyed the privilege of following the historical and scientific evolution of what St. Augustine

In dismissing the graduates Cardinal Gibbons addressed them as follows:
"Among the many institutions existing in this diocese, there is none that

"From the day of its foundation be the present hour, it has been to me an object of fatherly solicitude. I have re-joiced in its presperity and have grieved at every vicissitude of adversity through which it has passed. 'Allow one, Rev. Pathers, to congratulate you also on the dignitles bestowed upon you today. The success of your ministry will largely depend upon your thorough appreciation of the eignity and responsibility of your sacred office. How subline is the nesage you have to communicate to the How fur-reaching its applicability! How awe inspiring is your authority! You will not discuss from your pulpits sub ects of transitory or political nature, unless a moral issue is involved in them. The same decalogue that Moses proclaimed on Mount Sinal is the decalogue that you will preach to the people. The same prophetic warnings which the prophets uttered on the mountains and valleys of Judea; the same gospel of peace which Christ preached upon the Mount; the same lessons of morality that the Apostles proclaimed throughout the Roman empire, this is the Gospel that you will preach from January to December. You will speak of God and Hisattributes, of a God who created all things by His power; who governs all things by His wisdom; whose superintening providence watches over the affairs of this world, from the greatest to the smallest. You will speak of man, and of his dignit; and responsibility; of his origin and des-You will speak only those great etern truths which have engrossed the at ention of philosophers in every age. Thes were indeed problems which they could no solve without the light of Revelation They were always learning, and never attain ing to the knowledge of the truth.

you will proclaim to the people is its universal applicability. There is a vast and a sermon of a Catholic priest. The influence of a political harangue depen is on circumstances of time and place and on the political bias of the hearers. The emorable discourse of Mr. Eryan at the his audience with shouts of applause and adhesion, was condemned in New York and London as seditious and incendiary. But affected by circumstances of time or place or person. Its influence is not restricted by State lines or national boundaries. It has the same intrinsic force in Tokio and Pekin which it possesses in New in Paris. It appenls as forcibly to the conscience of the nineteenth century as it did to the conscience of the first century because the traths which it contains are based upon the eternal and unchangeable law of God. Then reflect how great is your authority.

"The trumpet of the Gospel, unlike the teachings of the philosophers, gives ou no uncertain sound. You can say with all the enruestness of the prophets of old, "Thus saith the Lord." Like your Divine Mester, you will speak as one having authority, and not as the scribes and pharisees. But you carry this power and grace in earthen vessels, that the excel lence may be of God and not of your selves. You will stand before the altar in God's sanctuary, clothed with gorgeous vestments-pray that these roles may never be solled or tarnished by your sin nd delinquencies-but that the of the external ornaments may be the re flection of your private life. The Lor outs into your hands the sword of the spirit, which is the word of God, but this sword will be blunted if it is not sharpened and tempered in the fire of the Holy Ghost. "Pray that you may be clothed with all the panoply of a Christian warrior, wear ing the belinet of salvation; having on the breastplate of justice; bearing on your arm the shield of faith; having your kins girt with truth and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace. God has endowed you with a mental capacity above the ordinary standard, and your in tellect has been developed and improved under able professors in this seat of learn ing; but the light which you will shed will be cold and cheerless and fruitless if it is not warmed by the rays of the Sun of every man who comethinto the world. May your missionary career redound to the glory of God, the development of the Christian religion, the strengthening of the bonds of charity among your fellow-citizens through out our beloved country."

The exercises were concluded by a Te

Deum and benediction of the blessed sac rament in the chapel of Caldwell Hall.

COMING TO THE THEATERS.

There is no more delightful and pretty light opera than Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Gondollers," that is announced for presentation at the Lafayette Square Opera House next week by the Castle Square Opera Company. Its manifold beauties have won admiration and applause from its earliest production. The opera is not often given here, perhaps from the fact that it calls for a cast of unusual strength and a scenic and costume display that means a liberal outlay to any managemen putting it on. The music of "The Gondollers" is very tuneful, as well as dainty and graceful. It has to be well sung, and heart is chiarged, and I am filled with profound gratitude to Almighty God. "I congratulate you, gentlemen of the that's what it will be by the co who, for the past several months, have given us such salendid entertainments at such prices that all may enjoy them. The fun in "The Gondollers" hinges on the discovery that one of the two gondollers is the son and heir of the King of Bara-taria, but which it is not known, so the two reign as one until at length the rightful heir turns up. There is, of course, a pretty love story running through the work. There will be the usual matinces on needay and Saturday. "A Man With a Past" is the play under lined to succeed "His Little Dodge" at the Columbia, and Judging from reports of its success in Boston and New York, should serve to prolong the laughter started by the present piece. Women with pasts have long monopolized the center of the stage, and it remained for those clever comedy constructors, Harry and Edward Paulton, authors of "Niobe" and "Erminie. to introduce a novelty in the shape of "A Man With a Past." The piece, which is of the frollosome, farcical vein character istic of these playwrights, was pro by the Hollands near the close of their starring tour. It was seen only in New York and Boston, where the rapidly increasing business indicated a popular success, but the Holland brothers, having already signed with other companies for next season, were unable to realize on their latest success Accordingly, thanks to the enterprise of the Columbia managers. Washington will be the first city outside of the two mentioned to see the new comedy. It will enlist the entire strength of the stock company, as will be seen by the following cast: Horace Hooper......A. S. Lipman

Josiah Hooper James O. Barrows Raynor......Alfred Hickman Runee......Frank Beamish Blanche Hooper.......Katherine Grey Harriet Hooper.........Kate Denin Wils Phyllis......Grayce Scott Flora.... Zura......Pearl Evelynne Goodge Gaume......A Chibi

There will be an entirely new bill at he Grand next week, and Manager Grau has provided an excellent bill. Raymond Moore, the California baritone, will have a number of new ballads; Miss Pearl Andrews, the female chevalier and "queen mimics," will be one of the features Mile Oceana, the great European acrobatic performer, will come direct from Hammerstein's New York Olympia From Koster and Bial's comes O.
